

Press release

Creditplus Bank and Micro Launch Cooperation for Microlino Sales Financing

- Creditplus Bank takes over sales financing for the electric vehicle "Microlino"
- New partnership with Micro strengthens sustainable mobility offering
- The aim is to facilitate access to urban electromobility through attractive financing solutions

Stuttgart, 24 June 2026. Creditplus Bank AG is further expanding its commitment to electric mobility and entering into a new cooperation with Micro. As part of the cooperation, Creditplus Bank will in future take over sales financing for the all-electric vehicle "Microlino". The aim is to facilitate access to innovative urban mobility for customers in Germany through flexible and needs-based financing solutions. Micro and Crédit Agricole Personal Finance & Mobility are already cooperating in Italy and the United Kingdom.

a mis en forme : Non Surlignage

Redefining the mobility of the future

Micro has been selling scooters and kickboards for over 25 years. Since 2013, the company has been active in the field of electric mobility and launched its first e-scooter on the market. In 2015, the development of the electric city vehicle Microlino began. The company aims to redefine the mobility of the future with high-quality products in functional and timeless design. Micro is headquartered in Küsnacht, Switzerland. In total, the company operates in around 80 countries worldwide.

Microlino offers advantages in urban areas

The Microlino is an all-electric city vehicle produced in Turin and developed in Switzerland. Due to the compact design, three vehicles can be accommodated in a conventional car park, which offers advantages especially in urban areas. Depending on the model, the top speed is between 45 km/h and 90 km/h, the range between 95 and 228 kilometres. Compared to classic electric cars, the Microlino requires less material and energy in production and use, thereby reducing environmental pollution.

"We are delighted to be partnering with Micro. Together, we want to actively shape the mobility of the future and make innovative products accessible to a wider range of customers through our financing solutions," says Christian Frey, Chief Sales Officer of Creditplus Bank AG.

"With Creditplus Bank we have an experienced partner at our side who supports us optimally with his financing expertise in sales. We look forward to working together and successfully positioning Microlino in the market," adds Wim Ouboter, CEO & Founder of Micro.

About Creditplus Bank AG:

Creditplus Bank AG is a highly specialised consumer credit bank with business areas of sales financing, direct business and dealer financing. The bank, headquartered in Stuttgart, has 21 branches and more than 700 employees nationwide. Creditplus Bank AG is part of the Crédit Agricole Group through the French consumer finance group Crédit Agricole Personal Finance & Mobility. It is one of the leading retail banks organised in the banking trade association. The bank has a multi-channel system that connects the distribution channels branches, internet, sales financing, dealer purchasing financing and partner banking.

About Micro:

Founded in 1999 by Wim Ouboter, Micro has been considered a pioneer of urban mobility. With the first kick scooter, the company coined the term "micromobility". In 2013, the company entered electric mobility. The development of the Microlino began in 2015 under the direction of Merlin and Oliver Ouboter. As a family-run company, Micro stands for innovation, quality and sustainability – among other things with the Best Design Award and the title "Fast Company Most Innovative Companies".

Press contact:

Creditplus Bank AG
Silke Maaß
Head of External Communications & Marketing
Phone: (0711) 6606-6345
Email: presse@creditplus.de
Website: www.creditplus.de

Micro Mobility Systems
Merlin Ouboter
co-founder
Telephone: +41 44 913 18 55
Email: merlin.ouboter@micro.ms
Website: www.microlino-car.com