Agos and Casâbito: a strategic partnership for energy transition and home renovation

Agos (a leader in consumer credit) and Casâbito (a pioneer in guaranteed residential well-being) announce an agreement to offer integrated financial solutions and “turnkey” energy renovation services on the Italian market.

Milan, May 26, 2026 – Agos and Casâbito announce the launch of a new strategic partnership aimed at supporting customers in their energy transition and strengthening the positioning of both companies as key players in the residential renovation market.

In a context of growing focus on energy efficiency, Agos — a major player in consumer credit — is expanding its scope by vertically integrating into the residential renovation sector through Casâbito’s expertise. The goal is to build an integrated ecosystem of services and financial solutions, leveraging consumer credit as a driver for property renovation.

Through Agos One, a product dedicated to primary residences, and a comprehensive range of financial solutions for second homes, Agos reaffirms its commitment to offering tools that are:

- Clear and transparent: for simplified debt management
- Sustainable: oriented towards financing responsible investments
- Accessible: to facilitate access to the renovation market

Casâbito is a project of the Italsoft Group, born from the ambition to combine over 40 years of expertise in industrial construction management with an approach focused on residential well-being. Through a method based on four pillars — including the “psychology of living” — a single point of contact, a single contract, and 10 contractual guarantees (from fixed quotes to ongoing maintenance), Casâbito ensures controlled timelines and costs.

The project aims for nationwide deployment, with the first spaces already opened in Pescara and Turin

“The partnership with Agos is based on a shared vision: renovation is a significant investment that requires guarantees and has a direct impact on quality of life. Our goal is to bring a structured and reliable approach to renovation to the Italian market, combining design quality, execution strength, and residential well-being. Agos’ role is to make this journey more accessible and sustainable. Together, we aim to offer customers the certainty of a solid investment that creates long-term value and well-being,” – Andrea Piva, CEO of Casâbito.

“Today, renovating one’s home means making an informed choice that combines well-being, energy savings, and asset enhancement. Through this collaboration, we support customers at every stage. Entering the renovation market is a natural extension of consumer credit: we don’t just finance a project, we help make it achievable and sustainable” Valerio Papale, B2B Director of Agos.
